Earl Wallace, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wallace, N. Court street, was a patient in Berger hospital Thursday after being seriously injured at 7:15 p. m. Wednesday when his bicycle and the automobile driven by Miss Virginia Caskey, daughter of Safety Director and Mrs. C. O. Caskey, collided.

The accident happened in Court street at its intersection with High.

He was peddling his bicycle north on Court street toward his home. Miss Caskey, driving her father's car, had driven south on Court street had started to turn east on High to take her sister, Barbara, to the home of Mrs. Robert Smith to attend a Girl Scout meeting.

Miss Caskey drove nearly to the curb on the north side of High street trying to avoid the bicycle. The vehicle crashed against the right side of the Caskey car, young Wallace striking his head against the windshield. The glass was broken. After the collision, he was thrown back into the street, and when he reached him he was still straddling his bicycle. The vehicle, a new one, was nearly demolished.

The boy was placed on the lawn of the Yates service station while the Albaugh Co. ambulance was summoned. The youth was placed in the care of Dr. H. D. Jackson.

Earl rested fairly well Wednesday night, hospital attaches reported.

Rudy Vallee, Daughter Of Indian, to Be Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Rudy Vallee, the crooner, and Gloria Youngblood, red-haired film dancer and daughter of a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, are engaged and probably will be married within three months, Miss Youngblood said today.

Miss Youngblood is 21. Her father was an Indian, her mother German. She went from Alton, Ill., to New York as an advertising model before entering the movies.

Vallee met her in New York. He was with her on a film set nearly half a day yesterday. After he had gone, Miss Youngblood announced the engagement. Vallee brought his orchestra here for an hotel engagement.

The crooner's former wife was the late Fay Webb, actress, of Santa Monica, Calif.

Miss Youngblood said she and Vallee renewed their friendship on his arrival here less than a week ago.

"I didn't intend to say anything at this time," she said, "but Mr. Vallee and I are deeply interested in each other and we hope to be married by the end of the year."

"We've discussed whether or not I should give up my career, but I'm getting a chance to establish myself in films and we don't want to ruin that opportunity."

Miss Youngblood came to Hollywood in April. She appeared with Gary Cooper in the picture, "Adventures of Marco Polo," and is now cast for "The Goldwyn Follies."

Vallee left orders at his hotel not to be disturbed until late this morning, and did not answer his telephone.

Bat Keeps Courtroom In Uproar

A bat was staging an endurance flight in common pleas court Thursday, entertaining court officials, jurors and others in the courtroom.

The flight was discovered at 7 a. m. by Virgil Brown, courthouse janitor. He and Robert Adkins, court bailiff, tried to stop the bat's antics with long poles, while they stood on window ledges. The bat "detoured" when the poles crossed its course, and kept on flying.

During the 10:30 a. m. recess of the court, the bailiff and deputy sheriffs tried to discourage the bat with more pole swinging, but they were unsuccessful.

Court officials hoped the endurance flight would last throughout the afternoon since several women in the courtroom appeared nervous when a landing was mentioned. What would happen if the visitor descended is not predictable.

UNCLE, 37, ADMITS SLASHING NIECE WHO FOUGHT HIM

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 7.—(UP)—Harry Bates, 37, confessed today, state motor police said, to killing an 11-year-old niece after she resisted his advances.

Arrested by state motor police, Bates puffed a cigarette as he led police to the air shaft of an abandoned coal mine in Derby township where he had hid the body of his niece, Vallie Bates. It was wrapped in a burlap sack.

Alarmed at the continued absence of Vallie, youngest of a family of nine, her father, Martin Bates, called police last night. The school girl left home about 6 p. m. to go to a nearby store for a package of tobacco for her uncle, who lives just across the road from her home at Cooperstown, four miles south of Latrobe.

At the home of Harry Bates, officers found blood stains, the child's shoes in a stove and her clothing stuffed under a porch.

When the uncle returned home late last night, he first denied seeing Vallie, but when blood stains were found on his trousers, he was arrested.

Asking for a cigarette, Bates calmly lit it, and finally confessed, leading police to the airshaft where the body was found. The girl's throat was slashed from ear to ear.

CITY TO PURCHASE SUB-MACHINE GUN FOR POLICE FORCE

Circleville's police department will soon be equipped with a Thompson sub-machine gun.

Councilmen passed an ordinance Wednesday night appropriating $300 to the safety fund, and authorized the safety director to purchase one of the guns with accessories and ammunition.

The city police department has wanted one of the guns for some time in case of an emergency. Two are owned by the sheriff's department.

Council appropriated $300 for the employment of special police during the Pumpkin Show.

MELTON STRIVES TO KEEP GIANTS IN SERIES PLAY

North Carolina Hurler
Opposes Red Ruffing
In Second Game

BOTH MEN ARE CONFIDENT

Odds Lengthen On Yankee
Team to Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Cliff (Mickey Mouse) Melton, the North Carolina hillbilly with the big ears and a grudge against anyone wearing the uniform of the New York Yankees, swung his left arm today in an effort to put the New York Giants back on even fortune with the American League champions in the 1937 World Series.

Melton, who in his first year in the major leagues got 20 victories against nine defeats, never saw a series game until yesterday, when the Yanks trampled over his Giants, 8-1. Today his famous ears twitched as he drauled a warning to the team which shipped him back to the minors three years ago after a hasty tryout.

"I've been a-gunnin' for them Yanks after the way they treated me," he said. "They won't pound no fences off me. I aims to make 'em look plenty sick before I get through with 'em."

Yankees Ready

The Yankees already had announced what was in store for the gangling rookie who had tossed a few insults at them during the latter part of the season. They had accused him of going "swell-head" and had declared:

"Wait until that big-eared punk starts throwin' 'em. We'll blast him back to North Carolina."

That was the friendly atmosphere at Yankee stadium today as the teams went back for the second game of a series that started with a rout for manager Bill Terry's National League champions.

Yankees' Manager Joe McCarthy chose Big Red Ruffing, whose right arm won 20 and lost 7, to battle it out with the 24-year-old Giant southpaw.

Betting men favored the Yanks today, quoting odds of 9 to 5, and raised the odds on the Yanks winning the world championship to 9 to 2. Ruffing was cocky as he prepared to face the Giants before a crowd of more than 60,000.

"If I have as much stuff as I had in Washington when I won my 18th game last week," said Ruffing, "it's going to be a no-hitter."

Play By Play

FIRST INNING
GIANTS: Ruffing's first pitch to Joe Moore was a called strike. Moore was out, swinging at a third strike. Bartell popped a double in short left. He reached second base without sliding as Hoag overran the ball. Ott singled to right field, scoring Bartell, and went to second on the throw to the plate. Ripple missed the third strike, a fast ball. McCarthy missed the third strike. One run, two hits, no errors.

YANKEES: Crosetti was called out on strikes. Melton slipping past a curve on the inside corner of the plate. Rolfe batted to Bartell and was out on a throw to McCarthy. DiMaggio lined to Bartell, who made a spectacular catch of the ball. No runs, no hits, no errors.

BASEBALL SERIES AND BEEF STEW END 'PEN' STRIKE

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 7.—(UP)—World series and beef stew proved too much for the hunger strikers of Statesville prison, Warden Joseph Ragen announced today.

"The strike is over," he said. "First to give in were those who couldn't resist temptation to eat. The rest gave up when they missed the broadcast of the first World Series baseball game in New York because the prison radio system had been turned off for duration of the strike."

"All of them accepted food last night," Ragen announced.

The strike started Monday morning to protest a sharp drop in paroles. More than 2,000 of the prison's 3,477 inmates gave up at least one meal. Prison officials brought in extra guards and tear gas as a precaution against violence, discontinued mail and newspaper deliveries, shut off the radio system, locked all inmates in their cells.

SECOND INNING
GIANTS: Chiozza hit a slow roller to third. Rolfe tossed to Gehrig for the out. Mancuso was out, Crosetti to Gehrig. Whitehead filed to Sellkirk in right field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

YANKEES: Gehrig was out, Bartell to McCarthy. The Giant shortstop fielded the ball back of second base. Dickey filed high and deep to Chiozza in centerfield. Hoag grounded out, Bartell to McCarthy, the shortstop making another great play back of second base. No run, no hits, no errors.

SISTER RESCUES YOUTHFUL ACTOR FROM DEATH FALL

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 7.—(UP)—Bobby Breen, the boy movie singer, today owed his life to his sister, Sally Breen Roth, who ran to the brink of a 1,000 foot cliff and rescued him as he rolled toward certain death in the chasm.

Bobby was on location for the filming of a new picture, "Stowaways in Paradise," when he strolled too near the cliff of Nuuanu Pali, over which an emperor of Hawaii once forced an enemy army to march to death.

While peering over the side, that rises perpendicularly for more than 1,000 feet, Bobby lost his footing and fell to the ground. A gust of wind caught him and was rolling him toward the edge when his sister saw him. She screamed and ran perilously close to the edge, to grab the boy's clothing and haul him to safety.

Zola Knight, glamorous figure of Honolulu night life, recently rode to the cliff in a taxicab and leaped to her death.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(UP)—The Rural Electrification administration today approved requisitions totaling $139,000 for six R. E. A. farmers' co-operative electric lines in Ohio. The funds will be used to buy poles, wire, transformers and other construction line equipment. Largest requisition $49,368, went to the Holmes Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc., Millersburg, which is building 285 miles of line.

Others included $11,524 to the Morrow Rural Electric Co-operative, Inc., Mt. Gilead; $22,115 to Western Farm Bureau Electric Co-operative Lima; $14,750 to Darke Rural Electric Co-operative, Greenville; $35,648 to Inter-County Rural Electric Co-operative, Hillsboro, and $5,779 to Licking Rural Electrification, Inc., Newark.

WIFE OF HOPKINS, W.P.A. CHIEF, DIES AT 37 IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Barbara Duncan Hopkins, 37, wife of W. P. A. Administrator Harry Hopkins, died in a hospital here early today after an illness of several weeks.

Hopkins was at the bedside when she died at 7:20 a. m. She had been in Carfield hospital since Sept. 18, but her condition did not become critical until early this week. Death was caused by carcinoma.

Member of a prominent family of Benton Harbor, Mich., she met Hopkins while both were doing social work in New York. They were married in New York in 1931.

The Hopkins have one daughter, Diana, 5. Mrs. Hopkins also is survived by a brother, Commander Donald Duncan, U. S. N., stationed at San Diego, Cal., and a sister, Mrs. Richard Stephens of Hawthorne, N. J.

Hopkins was married once previously. He has three children by the earlier marriage.

Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

GIRL, 21, KILLED; BROTHER HURT IN ATHENS WRECK

ATHENS, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Miss Juanita Rine, 21, was killed and her brother, Rev. Robert Rine, 22, was injured last night when an automobile driven by Rev. Rine left the road at a sharp curve on Route 56 at Whites Mill, and plunged down a 40-foot embankment into the Hocking river.

Councilmen Split Over N. & W. Wig-Wag Plan

Council split three to three Wednesday evening on approval of proposed crossing signal changes on the Norfolk and Western railroad. Wig-wag signals were to be placed at all crossings with the exception of those at Main and Western avenue and S. Court street, both busy highways.

Gates would be maintained at the Court street crossing. The company planned to place three watchmen on eight-hour shifts at that crossing, so that men now with jobs would be able to retain them. When one employee died or gave up his job for one reason or another, a wig-wag would be installed and operated during that shift. Eventually only wig-wags would be used.

Councilmen Ben Gordon, Harry Steinhauser and T. M. Barnes believed gates should be maintained on the W. Main street crossing, contending they were more effective than wig-wags. E. S. Neuding, C. O. Leist and Frank Marion favored the wig-wags at the crossing. John C. Goeller, president of council, and Julius Helwagen, were absent.

VIOLENT STORM CAUSES DAMAGE IN ROME REGION

ROME, Oct. 7.—(UP)—(By Radio from Milan to London)—A storm of terrific violence struck central Italy today. Telephonic communication between Rome and Europe generally was interrupted and at 8:40 a. m. (2:40 a. m. EST) the storm was hitting Rome.

Torrential rains driven by a gale caused floods and destroyed bridges and telegraph and telephone lines.

First casualty reports said that a family of five persons was wiped out by a landslide that crushed their farmhouse in the Pistoia district.

As this dispatch was filed, the gale had reached Rome and there was a violent downpour of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning.

It was indicated, in early reports, that the Adriatic coast extending up to the north was affected.

Premier Benito Mussolini has been since Saturday at his castle at Rocca Della Caminate, near Forli, near the coast and to the east of the storm area as defined in most reports.

F.D.R. TO RETURN TO U. S. CAPITAL AS CRISIS GROWS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(UP)—President Roosevelt leaves for Washington tonight faced with one of the most serious international problems since the outbreak of the World War—whether to lead America in an "active search of peace" in the face of foreign disputes "threatening a break-down of all international law and order."

Into what policy the president would take the country in his search was a matter of conjecture. Mr. Roosevelt steadfastly refused to enlarge on his Chicago speech of Tuesday outlining the crisis.

Observers recalled, however, that the president said last Summer that he would not call an international conference. They also believed it unlikely that America would join in any move for sanctions against what Mr. Roosevelt described as an "international anarchy."

Great importance was attached to the department of state action naming Japan as the "aggressor" nation in the Chinese-Japanese undeclared war of the Far East. White House aides said Mr. Roosevelt had no comment on the official statement, but said it was issued with his knowledge.

BY UNITED PRESS
World attention focussed on the United States today with the hope evident in Europe that Washington would play a leading role in trying to curb Japan in the Far East.

Powers supporting the nine-power pact guaranteeing China's independence have been called into conference, and Britain and France hope to hold the conference in Washington, thus emphasizing United States co-operation with the League of Nations and, almost, in a sense, its leadership.

European optimism was stirred by the state department's announcement condemning Japan. On the other hand, Tokyo, was deeply annoyed and showed no inclination to yield an inch under international pressure.

Spain Holds Attention

The Spanish situation vied with the Orient in world attention. Britain and France were prepared to reject an expected proposal by Italy that the problem of withdrawing foreign volunteers from Spain be discussed by the non-intervention committee of 21 nations in London, instead of only by Britain, France and Italy.

POTATO GROWERS FAVOR CONTROL OF 1938 CROP

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Ohio potato growers voted 287 to 147 in favor of the federal government's plan to control the 1938 crop. A. J. Patch, of the agricultural extension college at Ohio State university revealed today.

The poll, conducted from Sept. 29 to Oct. 2 in 51 counties, was part of a national poll conducted in four districts. Ohio is in the north central district along with several other states, which voted overwhelmingly in favor of the plan.

Patch said the light vote was due to the fact that Ohio is a comparatively unimportant potato growing state.

Six counties which were entitled to vote did not return any ballots. They were Ashland, Coshocton, Henry, Licking, Montgomery and Wane, Patch said.

DECLINE IN COST OF MEAT COMES AS BUTCHERS ACT

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(UP)—There were declines in meat prices today as 5,000 Kosher butchers continued their strike against "excessive" wholesale prices.

The Bureau of Animal Husbandry reported that beef products generally had dropped at least $1 per hundred pounds. Although the strike, affects only Jewish families, the bureau reported that all meat prices in the city were lower than at any time in the last two weeks.

Members of the Federation of Kosher Butchers continued to picket Kosher shops outside the federation despite Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia's attempt to bring butchers and packers together.

The price decline was attributed to the strike by federation officials.

LARGER PRIZES FOR AIR RACES IN 1938 POSTED

Thompson Trophy Winner To Get $25,000; Bendix Victor, $9,000

CLEVELAND IS SCENE

Dates For Event Arranged For Sept. 3-5

CLEVELAND, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Purses exceeding $120,000, richer by $30,000 than those of the 1937 meet, will tempt the class of the country's speed pilots at the 1938 National Air Races.

The larger purses, reflecting the successful financial outcome of this year's meet, recently closed, were announced by Louis W. Greve, president of the air races. Changes in distances of major trophy dashes and shortening of the meet to three days also were announced.

The 1938 races will be held here from Sept. 3 to 5.

Awards in the Thompson Trophy dash, feature event of the races will total $45,000, a $21,000 increase over this year.

Distance of the race will be lengthened to 300 miles, and entrants will be limited to major trophy dashes of not more than 1,860 cubic inch displacement. Number of entrants was increased from 10 to 15. The race now is 200 miles.

Thompson Prize $25,000

The winner of the Thompson event will be awarded $25,000.

Prizes for second and third place winners were not announced.

Planes participating in the Thompson event will not be permitted to enter the Bendix dash from Los Angeles to Bendix, N. J., opening event of the races.

Prizes in the Bendix race will be increased to $30,000. Twenty thousand dollars will go to the winner of the Los Angeles - to - Cleveland dash with $9,000 being awarded the pilot with the lowest elapsed time. Second place will receive 25 per cent of the Bendix purse, third 15 per cent, fourth 10 per cent, and fifth 5 per cent.

A special prize of $2,500 will be awarded the woman pilot with the fastest time to Cleveland, in addition to the money she will be eligible to win by finishing among the first five.

Extra Award Offered

Five thousand dollars will go to the pilot who after crossing the Cleveland line continues on to Bendix to break the cross-country Bendix record set by Frank Fuller in the 1937 dash. Pilots with the second and third best time on the extended hop will receive $1,500 and $1,000 respectively.

The Louis W. Greve trophy race, other major speed event, will be over a 200-mile course, with prize money increased to $25,000. The winner of this event will collect $10,000 and $5,000 will go to second place, and $2,000 to third. The remainder will be graduated down the field to $500 for tenth place.

Non-qualifiers in the Greve and Thompson races also will compete in a consolation event for $2,000 additional prizes.

A handicap race for women pilots will be announced later.

Greve said the announcement of the richer prizes at this time would give designers and builders a full ear to prepare for the 1938 races, and put into competition new ships necessitated by the changed rules and racing conditions.

JOINT COMMITTEE AGREES ON POOR RELIEF MEASURE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—(UP)—

After giving final approval to four of the seven bills included in its proposed program of poor relief bills, to be submitted to a special session of the legislature, the joint poor relief committee of the senate and house was adjourned today until next Tuesday.

The committee had originally planned to stay in session two days this week to complete its work, but abandoned this plan and will seek to wind-up in a one-day meeting next week.

The four bills approved included:

1. Increasing from $6,000,000 to $6,500,000 the amount of sales tax revenues appropriated for poor relief in 1938.

2. Authorizing county commissions to issue short term notes in anticipation of a surplus in the tax revenues for redemption of outstanding relief funds, to provide relief money for this year.

3. Allowing local subdivisions to approve tax levies outside limitations for poor relief by a bare majority vote.

4. Allowing subdivisions to approve local levies for statutory relief by bare majority vote.

40 Businessmen Hear Talk of Trip Through West

By S. D. FRIDLEY

The Ashville Community Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the creamery dining room and the attendance was in the "very good" class, there being more than forty present.

The interest in the work the Community Club can accomplish, was in the "extra good" class. Fifty dollars of the Community Club fund was voted to the local Boy Scout organization.

The improvement of three rear-end lots on Long street, belonging to Dr. Schiff, the Telephone Co., and Home Furniture Co., to be improved and used as a parking lot, was discussed and referred to a committee to ascertain the probable cost of this improvement.

A picture show was up for a hearing and was referred to a committee to get the desired information on what could be done to further the plans of getting a show into operation.

The school building auditorium may be used until some better arrangements can be made.

Grover Cline gave a talk telling of the many places he had visited and the interesting things they had seen while they (himself and wife and Charles Cloud and wife) were on their auto trip through the West.

A motion picture showing the damage done by termites, was given by representatives of a chemical company whose product is said to prevent the destruction caused by these insects.

The next meeting of the Club will be on Wednesday evening, Oct. 29. The banquet served in form of a splendid chicken dinner was all that could be desired. We credit this good "feed" to the new manager, Reed Shafer and his helpers.

CHEF AGAINST GIVING DISHES TRICKY NAMES

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A chef tastes his dishes by smelling them, according to Pierre J. Berard, noted chef and officer of a society of epicures. The trick, he pointed out, is to sniff and at the same time pretend you're chewing and swallowing.

Berard, chairman of Les Amis d'Escoffier, Chicago chapter of the Societe Culinaire Philanthropique of New York, has taken over the management of the kitchens at the Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

He insisted there must be an "accent on food." The true accent, he held, is attained through wise and skillful blending of food flavors that whet the appetite, thrill it and leave it with a sense of satisfaction.

WAR MEDICINE TO BE STUDIED AT '39 SESSION

World Congress Accepts
Roosevelt's Invitation
To Meet in U. S.

SIX TOPICS DISCUSSED

Gathering Held in Each Two-Year Period

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(UP)—The World War—considered the greatest clinic the world has ever known—was the inspiration for an international medical organization that today is working not only to ameliorate the suffering of war and war conditions, but has formed the basis of more effective treatment of the sick and wounded during peace.

The International Congress of Military Medicine and Pharmacy (which includes all branches of medicine, surgery, sanitation and dentistry) will meet in the United States in 1939, on invitation of President Roosevelt.

The congress was sponsored by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians and was conceived and organized in 1921 by Col. Jules Voncken of the Belgian military medical service and Dr. William Seaman Bainbridge, captain and medical director in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Meets Every Two Years
Since then it has met every two years in the various capitals of Europe. It aims at the internationalization of all branches of the healing art, with the collection, codification and standardization of all available knowledge so that, regardless of nationality or position of the ever-changing lines of combat, prompt, effective and uniform treatment of the sick and wounded in any war zone may be carried out without the interruption, perhaps, of enemy successes and occupation of a territory.

At each congress six main topics are discussed. The country in which the congress is held submits an official report on each question, as does another nation selected, for its special experience in the subject under discussion. Valuable contributions on each question are also received from other countries. Toward the close of the congress, general conclusions are drawn up and are accepted only if they have the unanimous approval of all delegates. If there is any point that is not clear, or in which all cannot agree, the matter is tabled for a future meeting when added experience or further deliberation may solve the question in doubt.

The permanent committee of the congress, appointed at the first meeting by the King of the Belgians, is the working and managing unit. It consists of one member from each of eight nations—Belgium, France, Great Britain, Italy, Spain, Brazil, Switzerland, and the United States of America, (which Dr. Bainbridge represents). The meetings of the committee are held before, during and following the congress sessions, and in alternate years when necessary.

Headquarters in Liege
The central bureau of the congress is located in Liege, Belgium, and here also is conducted another branch of the daily working activity of the organization—the international office of medico-military documentation, which is under the supervision of the Secretary-General, Col. Voncken. At this office, are collected documents, books, articles on military topics, and articles on military medical topics, and various material relating to the medical services of all countries. Accredited representatives of governments are at liberty to utilize this office for reference, and there is a department that answers technical questions received by mail from all over the world.

Immediately after past wars, certain phases of medical, surgical and sanitary experiences have been summarized. The result of a battle on the life or limb of the combatants, the immediate treatment given, special operations performed soon after the infliction of an injury, have become part of medico-military history.

Monaco Pact Drawn
In 1933, when the congress was meeting in Madrid, the Principality of Monaco was represented for the first time. Experts in international law from various countries were also present. The active interest of Prince Louis II of Monaco was aroused and, in 1934, he invited the permanent committee and leaders in international law to a week's conference at his palace. The result of this conference is the so-called Pact of Monaco, which aims toward the humanization of war, and has as its goal the realization of the following five points.

1. Organization of medical zones and towns.
2. Medical assistants by non-belligerents.
3. Treatment of prisoners of

A. F. of L. and C. I. O. Conventions Find Rival Labor Groups Far Apart

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The leadership of labor in the United States comes under close scrutiny for two weeks beginning Oct. 4. On that day the American Federation of Labor opened its national convention in Denver. A week later, on Oct. 11, the Committee for Industrial Organization has its first national convention in Atlantic City.

The concurrent conventions find the two wings of the labor movement farther apart in spirit than when they split nearly two years ago. The leaders are as unwavering and bitter as they have ever been. The obvious result of the civil war between William Green and John L. Lewis is beginning to appear—the two labor movements are fighting each other on the field, to the amusement of some employers.

between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. will spring with the appearance at the A. F. of L. convention of Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee, head of the pressmen's union, but will be discounted even before they are cold.
According to A. F. of L.'s Green, the Denver convention will not only reconfirm the breach with the C. I. O., but will take issue with the National Labor Relations board and Labor's Non-Partisan league; with the board because of alleged discrimination in favor of C. I. O. unions, and with the league because of John L. Lewis' dominating position in it. The Non-Partisan league took much credit for the reelection of President Roosevelt, particularly in Pennsylvania.

The bitterness of the A. F. of L. is suggested in its failure to invite Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to address the convention, snubbing the department of labor for the first time in the history of the department or the federation. Mme. Perkins is under A. F. of L. criticism as being "C.I.O.-minded." What the C. I. O. convention will do, aside from laying plans for still further expansion in the organizing field, has not been indicated by Lewis. It considered probable, however, that the delegates will criticize President Roosevelt for what they consider a let-down in the "little steel" strike.

Meanwhile, the disunited labor groups are extending warfare against each other on more and more fronts.

In San Francisco, A. F. of L. pickets from the teamsters' union who had refused to haul goods to C. I. O. longshoremen finally have gone back to work.

In Seattle, federation teamsters have refused to handle lumber produced by the C. I. O. group of lumber mill workers, who split from the A. F. of L. carpenters' union. In the oil fields of Texas and Oklahoma, organizers from the C. I. O. and the metal trades department of the A. F. of L. are competing for members. In the aluminum factories something of the same order is going on.

More Conflicts
In the eastern seaboard cities, the C. I. O.'s transport workers' union is invading the ranks of A. F. of L. unions. In the electrical industry also the C. I. O. union has disrupted ranks of A. F. of L. unions, and their conflicts have been the subject of inter-union litigation in federal courts and before the National Labor Relations Board.

The A. F. of L. is accused in Cleveland of sponsoring company unionism and of resorting to violence against C. I. O. men in the organization of several knit goods plants that had been struck by the International Ladies' Garment Workers, a C. I. O. founding union. This same charge—that the A. F. of L. is "conniving" with some employers in forming "virtual company unions"—is made repeatedly elsewhere by C. I. O. organizers.

Close observers see no prospect even of eventual peace. The A. F. of L. represents the "old order" or entrenched conservative groups while the C. I. O., to a large extent represents groups which had not been organized hitherto and which may be described as being more of a mass movement. The battle bears a resemblance to present political divisions, conservatives vs. New Dealers.

The A. F. of L.'s 3,000,000 membership probably is declining somewhat through defections, while the C. I. O.'s more than 3,000,000 is gaining weekly.

SCIENCE HUNTS KEY TO ANCIENT FLINT CHIPPING

Ohio State Museum Will Open Lithic Laboratory
To Revive Art

SHETTRONE HEADS MOVE

Evidence of Great Skill Seen
In Works

By OTTO JANSSEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Oct. 7.—(UP)—An attempt to "rediscover" the lost art of flint-chipping, brought to an astonishing degree of perfection by pre-historic man on the American continent, has been announced by the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society here.

Henry Clyde Shettrone, director of the Ohio State Museum, announced a "lithic laboratory" for the Eastern United States will be established shortly in the museum in an effort to duplicate the flint chipping's art.

Shettrone recently returned from a tour of England and France, where he studied the techniques used in working flint and other lithic materials. He made moving pictures of the so-called flint-knappers of Brandon, England, where the manufacture of gun-flints has been pursued for centuries.

African Technique Studied
The trade at Brandon now is principally with native East African tribes and Asiatic islanders. The purpose of Shettrone's visit was to study techniques supposedly common to all flint chippers, including pre-historic man.

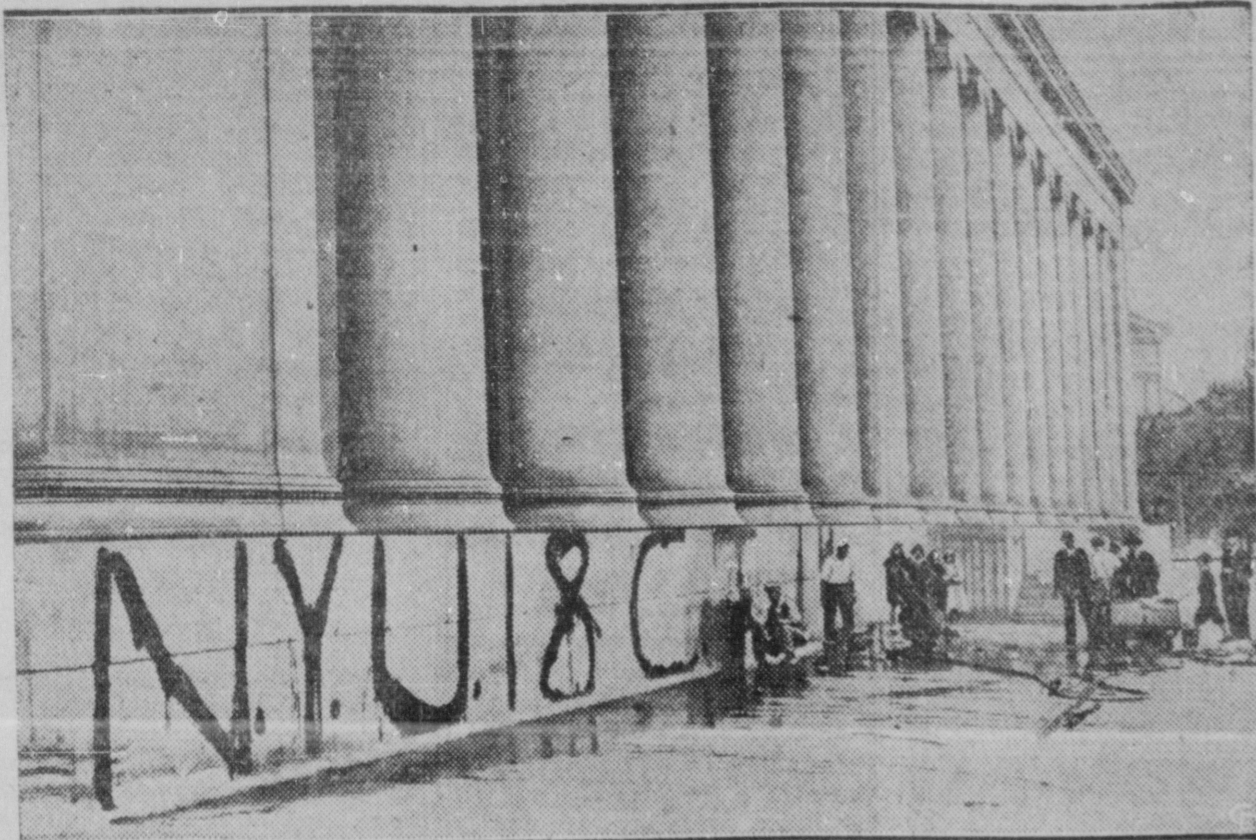

"Flint chipping probably should be called a neglected rather than a lost art," Shettrone said. "It isn't that we don't know how to chip flint; certain techniques just defy our skill."

He displayed a thin, delicately-etched flint knife blade of American origin as an example of this.

"Just how these blades were cut defies our knowledge," Shettrone said. "Even with metal tools, which pre-historic man did not possess, we cannot duplicate the thinness."

"While these objects apparently are the oldest man-made things in America, they show evidence of the highest skill," he said.

Shettrone said the discovery in the Southwest of a distinctive type of flint implement in association with the skeletal remains of extinct mammals beneath the earth deposited by the last glacial invasion promises "to thrust back the human horizon—just how far back into the past remains to be seen."

It was previously believed, Shettrone said, that the American continents were not inhabited by man until the recession of the glaciers some 10,000 to 25,000 years ago.

The discovery of this unique type of implement—called "Folsom" after the town in New Mexico near which the implements first were uncovered indicates that certain animals such as the ground-sloth, bison, muskox and mammoth survived later than was previously supposed and that man existed earlier than formerly was believed.

Common Culture Shared

In addition, folsom-type implements have been uncovered in widely separated places, including Ohio, indicating that early man shared, to some extent, a common culture. Prior to the discovery it was thought scattered groups lived in ignorance of the other's existence.

The plan to establish the lithic laboratory here was evolved by the American Anthropological Association because of the nearness to the famous flint ridge and the society's existence research. The museum contains the world's largest collection of the mound builders' work.

Lithic collections will be sent here from other states and will be displayed at the museum. The museum plans to employ a young archaeologist to carry on the flint-chipping experimentation.

Dresses with brief jackets are seen at all the smart places this fall. A very attractive model is a black sheer wool, with its jacket banded in Persian lamb. The frock is slim with a belt of the same material.

MEN FOR SPAIN HAD U. S. CAMP

MOUNTAINDALE, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(UP)—American volunteers "distinguishing themselves" with the International Brigade in the Spanish Civil War may have been taught the rudiments of warfare near here, according to Albert Huber.

Huber, after reading of the wounding of several Americans fighting in the George Washington battalion near Madrid, asserted that at least two of the men were trained on a farm near his land.

He said groups of from 20 to 25 men spent two-week periods at this farm last April and May. The men said they were from New York on a "rest cure." But Huber pointed out, they devoted most of their time to practice shooting with .22-caliber rifles, and he thought at the time it was a peculiar way to rest.

Names Were Concealed
Although he was permitted to watch the men practice, Huber said apparent leaders of the groups made it a point to refrain from calling their men by name while he was present.

However, Huber said he recognized the given names of two men listed among the casualties—a Joe Drill and a Lester Gittleton. He admitted there were many men with the same given names, but was "pretty certain" they were the Joe and Les he had talked with at the farm.

Les, he recalled, had been gun-shy and would close his eye before his rifle recoiled. Joe was score-keeper for the group.

Huber also remembered a leader named Harry, who wore a beret, dark short breeches and high boots and carried a bayonet in a scabbard at his side.

Drill Master Stern
Harry, Huber said, once became impatient with a backward recruit and, shaking the fellow by the shoulder, yelled:

"Why don't you do as you're told! You know what happens to guys who don't obey orders around here!"

Bayonet practice—with each man taking a turn with Harry's bayonet—was another phase of the "cure" that puzzled Huber.

Each recruit would fix the bayonet to his rifle and then charge a dummy suspended from a tree, Huber said.

When the last group of men departed early in June, they left as evidence of their training the tattered dummy, as well as an orange crate, a cardboard carton, a milk can and several paper targets—all of which had been used in rifle practice and were riddled by bullet holes, Huber asserted.

Almost every nationality was represented among the groups of men, according to Huber.

Style Whimsies

A frock with its skirt in three layers of fringe, seen at a New York social function, was made of a new aluminum metal fabric overlaying a soft blue. It was worn by a white-haired woman who had rinsed her tresses with a slightly blue rinse.

The lace suit or tailleur is counted among the smartest fashions, and milady will do well to include at least one in her wardrobe.

Rotary's part in bringing about international understanding and good will in the past, and the even greater part it will play in the future was the highlight of an address given before the Circleville club Thursday noon by Robert Bangham, of Wilmington, district governor.

Robert G. Colville, treasurer of the Pumpkin Show society, met with the club to make plans for the society membership drive conducted by members of the club. David Jackson, high school pupil, called the attention of members to the Greenfield-Circleville football game on Oct. 29 when dedication exercises will be conducted for the new lights and field equipment. Circleville plays Sunbury Friday night on the local field.

DAHL MAY KNOW HIS FATE TODAY; WIFE IS HOPEFUL

SALAMANCA, Spain, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Harold E. Dahl, the American aviator who was captured by the Nationalists while flying for the Loyalists, may learn his fate today.

High military authorities were reported to have completed their review of his trial by court martial.

The secret verdict, when they approve it, will be turned over to Generalissimo Francisco for final consideration before it is made public. Observers believed that if it calls for the death penalty, Franco may commute the sentence.

CAEN, France, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Harold E. Dahl was overjoyed today by reports that her husband might be saved from death before a Nationalist firing squad.

"Since my husband was captured I have been a nervous wreck," she said. "Whenever the telephone rang I was almost ready to scream at the thought that they might have shot my darling."

MISS AMERICA OF 1925 LEAVES HER EIGHTH HUSBAND

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 7.—(UP)—Virginia Cogswell Raymond, the "Miss America" of 1925, asked a divorce from husband No. 8 today and sighed:

"I must be too idealistic." Most of the fellows she met since 1925, she said, "probably" were more interested in her as Miss America or — later — as a baroness than as "just plain Virginia."

"I am a retiring nature," she added. She is not asking alimony, she said, because she believes it is a racket unless it is necessary for a woman who has children or is unable to earn a living independently.

Mrs. Raymond's suit, charging cruelty, stated that she eloped with orchestra leader Dick Raymond Sunday, that he slapped her on Sunday and Monday.

"If two people haven't got the right spirit to live together on a 50-50 basis, the person taking abuse has no self respect if she or he sticks," she said.

Tokyo Makes No Move to End Its Offensive On Chinese Territory

settlement were flooded. Water and high winds combined to intensify the suffering of thousands of Chinese refugees, sleeping for weeks in doorways and alleyways. So severe were the rains that they stopped the war on the Shanghai front.

Japanese airplanes were grounded, and thus there ended for the moment a gigantic air raid program on which the Japanese had embarked coincidentally with President Roosevelt's peace speech and the state department's approval of League of Nations action in the Chinese-Japanese war.

100 Planes in Air
More than 100 airplanes, a Japanese spokesman disclosed, bombed mercilessly all day yesterday over a wide area of north, central and southern China — towns and railroads, including the Peking-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow lines in the north and the vital Southern road between Canton and Hankow, the national supply line for munitions.

Canton's suburbs were bombed again today, and it was established that communication on the Canton-Hankow line had been interrupted temporarily. One stalled train contained 250 officers and men of the British cruiser Cape Town, on their way to Canton from Hankow.

Chinese leaders here and at Nanking were jubilant today at the news that the state department had expressed its approval of League of Nations procedure in the Chinese-Japanese crisis. Officials, financiers and business men discussed the statement

Reports from the state division of public assistance show payments in Pickaway county under aid to dependent children average $22.71 monthly as compared to the state average of $35.04. "It is a ray of hope for China through the darkness. All China knows now of America's positive moral support at this critical moment, and is heartened. It gives us an idea of what we may expect. We do not expect America to fight China's battles. But statements so definite, so strong, so clear leave no doubt that America still stands for the preservation of civilization."

FARM FREEDOM SOUGHT IN OHIO BUREAU POLICY

Right To Exercise Own Choice
Demanded By Perry
L. Green

SIX POINTS STRESSED

Regulation of Marketing,
Speculation Asked

"Under the program proposed by the Ohio Farm Bureau for insuring greater agricultural security, each individual farmer would be free to exercise his own choice in the production of crops," said Perry L. Green, president of the state farm organization, Columbus, regarding the farm bureau's agricultural parity program.

The October issue of the Ohio Farm Bureau News, released this week, presents a "constructive policy for agricultural parity" approved by the Ohio organization, and containing the following six points.

1. The establishment of an "honest dollar" with purchasing power kept "constant in relation to commodities" instead of "by gold alone";
2. Rigid regulations of holding companies, marketing speculations, and of monopolies which control industrial and financial institutions in order to force "a more equitable distribution of commodities";
3. An adequate warehousing act to provide loans "direct to the farmer on major farm crops in order that he may safeguard his commodity against a speculative market and . . . more orderly market his crop";
4. A land retirement program to "balance our production more nearly with that existing prior to the World War";
5. Continuance of a soil conservation program "as a means of preserving and improving our natural resources";
6. A land rental program, if necessary, "giving the Secretary of Agriculture the authority to rent outright such an amount of land as will maintain a proper balance of . . . price levels."

"National legislation has been proposed," commented Mr. Green, "which would grant absolute authority to ration production of major commodities to every individual farmer in the United States. Such legislation would entail unwarranted expense, reduce production out of proportion with consumption needs, and deprive the individual farmer of choosing his own crop production plans.

"Since our problem in the main is one of overproduction, we have sought legislation in the order of their importance which first relieves the causes of under consumption and sustains price levels through natural means, rather than placing major emphasis on price levels being sustained through curtailment of production, or other artificial and uneconomic means."

COUNTY HELPS IRISHMAN WOO RIGHT COLLEEN

DUBLIN (UP)—Dennis O'Grady, young farm laborer of Mohill, County Leitrim, wanted a wife, but not "one of these modern misses." He had his eye on a certain widow. But before he could woo her he needed a house, so he wrote to County Leitrim Board of Health asking for one.

His letter said:

"I am still a bachelor, but that is no fault of mine, for if I get the 'cage' it will not be long before I get the 'bird.' I have a widow in my eye whom I am courting in my own mind for some time past. She would be a suitable mate for a man in my position, as she is not one of these 'jazzers' or 'plano-tuners' and possesses all the qualifications that would make a good wife. She can make a cake, milk a cow and knit a pair of socks. That is more than the man-hunting colleen of the present day can do.

"I am thinking of making some advance in my courtship, as the other day when I was passing she asked me to mend a tongs for her. Whether that is a good sign or not I do not know, as later on it might be my misfortune to get the weight of it. However, I am willing to take my chance."

The board decided to grant Dennis his cottage.

DOCTORS UNITS TO SET UP OWN PHONE SERVICES

WATERTOWN, N. Y. (UP)—Twenty-five Watertown physicians have enrolled under a "new freedom" movement. They now leave their telephones unattended without fear of neglecting their patients.

The 25 doctors have subscribed to a novel telephone exchange service which will handle their calls while they and the members of their families attend the motion pictures, play golf, or go for an outing.

Operation of the exchange is rather simple. The doctor notifies the exchange operators where he may be found when he goes out for entertainment. Then, when someone calls the doctor, the call is relayed via the exchange to the physician.

The exchange operators are barred from recommending physicians to potential patients who can't decide which doctor they would like to patronize. Unless the caller names the particular doctor he wants, his call will be futile.

IMBIBERS FACE MODERN TEST IN PALO ALTO

PALO ALTO, Cal. (UP)—Scientific tests which will determine to a milligram the amount of alcohol in a patient's blood stream have replaced the old system of walking the straight line to detect intoxicated drivers in the Palo Alto police department. Apparatus for the blood test has been installed in the local station under the direction of Dr. Clement H. Arnold.

About 15 minutes is required for each test, using a method developed by Dr. Harry Newman of the Stanford Medical School.

If the concentration is over two milligrams of alcohol to the cubic centimeter of tested material, the subject is intoxicated, according to Dr. Arnold. If the concentration runs as high as five milligrams, the subject is "dead drunk," and if it reaches seven milligrams he is "more dead than alive," the doctor said.

Dr. Arnold discredited the theory that the habitual drinker is less susceptible to intoxication than the moderate drinker, when he said alcohol impairs reactions, movements and judgments long before outward effects are apparent.

BRITON INVENTS SKY TORPEDOES

SWANSEA, Eng. (UP)—Behind an electrified iron fence guarded by a notice which warns "Keep Out," a lonely building set amid a thousand acres of desolate Welsh mountain-land, houses a remarkable invention which, it is said, can make Great Britain safe from aerial attack.

It is a rocket aerial torpedo which discharges parachutes bearing steel wires, to the ends of which bombs are attached. The aim of the invention is to lay an "aerial minefield" for raiding aircraft.

Full details of the device have been revealed by the inventor, Harry Grindell-Matthews. He believes that the use of anti-aircraft guns will be futile against the bombing machines of the future that will choose their own time, fly in cloud-layers high above the earth, and use instruments to tell them the position of their objective.

To counter this, he has invented a rocket or aerial-torpedo which, using a special fuel, will attain an altitude of 32,000 feet in a few seconds. At this height the rocket will discharge 20 or more parachutes to which timed bombs are attached by high-tensile steel wires.

The parent rocket is provided with its own parachute which blows out at the end of the run, thus enabling the container to float to earth and be retrieved for recharging.

Large numbers of these aerial rockets can be discharged every minute. They will release colonies of 20 to 30 smaller rockets so creating an aerial minefield. Areas of sky can be mined as the sea was during the last war. The cost of these rockets is several hundred dollars each.

BRITAIN'S NAVY IN GREAT NEED OF ARTIFICERS

LONDON (UP)—There is a grave shortage of artificers—skilled mechanics—in the British Navy.

So urgent is the need for these men that the Admiralty is considering placing the fleet repair ship, H. M. S. Resource, on reserve at Malta in order to release some 70 artificers, who now form part of her normal complement, for service in some of the new destroyers and other warships now nearing completion.

The general rearmament program and the recent expansion of the navy have absorbed most of the skilled men available. Plenty of boys for training can be and are being recruited, but it will be at least four or five years before they are proficient, and in the meantime the navy is looking for men already trained.

Saltcreek Wins Two

Washington township traveled to Saltcreek on Wednesday to lose both games in the return engagement. The boys, coached by Gomer Jones, held Washington scoreless in the last two innings and scored six runs. Final score 7 to 3 in favor of the Saltcreek crew led by Seymour who pitched the entire game.

Washington girls were no match for Saltcreek's ten who scored another win despite Washington's rally in the fourth ending. Lutz and Waliser pitched for Saltcreek; Matz for Washington. Score at end of 4½ innings 13 to 12.

OPPORTUNITY FOR EDWARD
AMERICANS are suddenly agog again about the contemplated visit of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, announced by Edward in Paris. Our upper society groups, especially at New York and Washington, are probably more agog than the rest of us, but nearly everybody is interested.

Our people always liked the Prince, and the vast interest aroused by his preference of an American girl to an empire has not subsided. The country would greet them hospitably, even though the first ardor has cooled a little as the former King-Emperor seemed to be sinking contentedly into the life of a pensioner-playboy.

If Edward and his wife are really interested, as they profess to be, in studying living and working conditions in this country, the rank and file of Americans will be more genuinely interested in them. Some sort of sociological work should be more suitable, and more popular, and more profitable, than merely playing and drinking around with the Newport crowd.

It might be, too, that they would like the United States well enough to remain here. England has shown no hospitality to them, and Edward seems to be getting bored with the life he has been leading on the Continent.

The British government might not like it, and might cut off his allowance. But, that could be easily remedied. Many a big corporation here would gladly pay him a royal salary. And if he wanted to go into business for himself, doubtless do very well with a swanky hotel or selling insurance. As for the Duchess, she could turn a women's style shop into a gold mine.

NIGHT PERILS
MOST people think the safest place at night is their own home, but apparently there are plenty of dangers there. The safety experts of the recent accident-prevention conference at Washington, arguing that it's more perilous to be there at night than in the daytime, made several safety suggestions, mostly involving the use of light.

It isn't necessary, they say, to sleep in the dark. They proposed a mild illumination through the house that will not interfere with slumber. There should be a light that goes on automatically when it rings at night, and doorbells should do likewise.

It sounds reasonable, and is no doubt practicable, and we'll probably have our homes equipped in this fashion pretty soon. It does seem a pity, though, that human beings should be so weakened and corrupted by civilization that they can no longer find their way about safely in the dark, as the animals can, and as primitive

World At A Glance

The Circumstances of Loyalist Spain's defeat for membership in the League of Nations' council at Geneva evidently surprised our state department, here in Washington.
I do not wonder, either.
It is not so surprising that the regularly established Spanish government was beaten. The surprising detail is that it was beaten mainly by the votes of the Latin-American representatives in the League. As a former South American resident, for a considerable number of years, I would not have expected this myself.
(Loyalist Spain isn't out of the League, to be sure, but it was turned down for a place in the council; a substantial snub).
LATIN-AMERICA'S STAND
It was to have been foreseen that Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany would vote against Spain—I mean Loyalist Spain. The Spanish rebels are of Italy's and Germany's own way of political and economic thinking.
But I would not have thought that the Latin American republics would be on the rebels' side.
On reflection, however, I can see how and why I miscalculated.

HULL REVEALED IMPATIENCE
WASHINGTON—Those who talk with Cordell Hull while no diplomats are around report that his eyes snap and he even drops his Tennessee drawl at mention of the word "Japan."

Inside fact is that Hull is ready to go to further than any other member of the Cabinet in maintaining a stiff policy toward the Japanese. He was absent from Washington, attending the American Legion convention in New York, when the American Ambassador left Nanking to escape the Japanese air raid. Otherwise he would have left. When Hull returned, the Ambassador went back to the Embassy.

The key to Hull's policy in the Far East can be found in his position toward the Versailles Treaty. He was a devout Woodrow-Wilson-League-of-Nations man. Then a member of Congress, Hull concurred with Wilson in the three-power alliance by which the United States tied itself up with France and Great Britain to keep the peace of Europe.

So firm were his Wilsonian convictions that he found it hard to forgive Ambassador William C. Bullitt for his Senate testimony against the Versailles Treaty—even after Bullitt was appointed Hull's personal assistant.

It was lost in all the other news from the American Legion convention, but Hull made an extremely important summary of his Far Eastern policy during his speech at National Commander Colmery's dinner. "We have made it clear," he said, "that while we are resolved by every means to avoid war, we are not and cannot be indifferent to policies that lead to war, or to instances of international lawlessness that disturb the peace."

This means all that you read between the lines—namely that Cordell Hull, although a sincere exponent of peace and a very patient man, believes that the saturation point of patience may be reached in the Far East.

HULL VS. ROOSEVELT
Roosevelt and Hull have very similar views on the Far East, with the exception of one phase.
Remember that Roosevelt is a great naval enthusiast, spent eight years under Woodrow Wilson building a big navy, has pushed the Navy as never before during the past four years. To a considerate extent he shares the Navy's viewpoint on the Far East.

That viewpoint is: If Japan seizes control of China, she may become a serious threat to a white standard of living across the Pacific.

The difference between Hull and Roosevelt is that the President feels public opinion in the United States may not be ready for a stiff attitude toward Japan. He doesn't want to get out on a limb ahead of public sentiment.

Mr. Hull, on the other hand, recently told one of his advisers: "You can always depend upon the Japanese to play their cards wrong as far as public opinion is concerned."

In view of the bombing of Nanking, it looks as if he was right.

man could. You never heard of a cave man bumping his head against the wall or stumbling over a doorstep.

AS IT WAS ONCE
Argentina, where I spent most of my time on the southern continent, is fairly representative of liberal Latin America—as far as its liberality goes.
And Argentina, in my day there, was pretty liberal.
It's democracy was quite beautiful. I almost liked its atmosphere better than our own, in the United States. It was more enthusiastic and Jeffersonian; less diluted by plutocracy, not to use the term capitalism.
Its government was genuinely liberal—not crazily radical.
FEW 'RULING FAMILIES'
But—
The Argentine's ruling class is very, very small.
It consists of about a dozen families—the Mitres', the Paz's, the Virasoros, the Astudillas', the Mulhalls (originally Irish), the Salaberrys, the Mihanoviches, the Tornquistes, et al.
(The Mulhalls, the Mihanoviches and the Tornquistes may not sound like Spanish names but they date back to the very origin of the Argentine republic.)
THEN-DICTATORS
These folk have an army, small but efficient.

Hazards of Home Greater Than Automobile.

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"QUIET and safe at home," is just a phrase.
The hazard of being at home is greater than being in an automobile.

In 1936 39,000 people were killed while "safe at home." Automobile accidents killed 37,500 in the same period.
The kitchen is the most lethal room in the house. Fifty-six per cent of fatal burns originated in the kitchen.
The bedroom is the room where most of the falls occur (39 per cent) while the living room is a close second.
The bathroom also is a dangerous retreat. There have been half a dozen reports of fatal fracture of the skull from slipping in the bathtub and striking the skull on the sides.
In the bathroom, too, is the hazard of low voltage shocks.
"Has coming into contact with 110 volts of electricity ever caused death in an adult or child?" comes a question.
Even much lower than 110 volts, as low as 75, has led to death in many instances. Alternating currents are regarded as more dangerous than direct, other things being equal. Amperage is more important than voltage. Death almost invariably follows exposure involving 100 or more milliamperes. Bathroom accidents are ordinarily typical of low voltage conditions. The victim, standing in water, reaches for an electrical switch or fixture. Some defect leads to contact with the current. Leakage around electric switches and instruments of all kinds is almost always possible.

Automobile Home Hazard
Another home hazard partly connected with the automobile is carbon monoxide poisoning. Do not leave your car with the motor running inside a closed garage. Even for a short time, and especially if you are inside the garage also. Carbon monoxide, which comes out of the automobile exhaust, does not give any warning, even to the sense of smell.
For the treatment of the patient with a low voltage shock, as well as the patient with carbon monoxide poisoning, the treatment is artificial respiration, even if the case looks hopeless.
Household dry cleaning is a hazard, especially in the winter. Keep the windows open if you are going to dry clean at home. A prominent hygienist says he is opposed to the practice of selling any volatile solvent for dry cleaning, at least in gallon packages. No matter if they are labeled, the labels are not read. A housewife buys a gallon and washes half a dozen dresses in a small room, hanging them up to dry while she goes on working. Doing everything, in fact, to assure that she will be poisoned. And she often is.

DEAD RECKONING By BRUCE HAMILTON
COPYRIGHT BY BRUCE HAMILTON, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Tim Kennedy graduated into would-be homicide from the school of artichute murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther lies up with a truck, returning home a week later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow. He becomes infatuated and finally decides that Esther must die. Trying to work his wife into a state of despondency over her condition, he can take a suicide. Tim feels the time for the poisoning is ripe. His plans are spoiled when Dr. Harold Arkwright, Esther's uncle, in discussing Esther's condition, tells Tim he is positive she never would take her own life. During a sea cruise, Tim ponders over other means of ridding himself of his wife.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:
CHAPTER 21
DURING Esther's second nightmare on shipboard she did not scream—or if she did, not sufficiently loudly to awaken Tim or attract any other attention. What did wake him was a sudden draught of cold air blown into the cabin from an electric fan outside. He jumped to the floor and saw that Esther's berth was empty. An instant later a heavy crash from a little distance away sent him racing down the corridor. Others who had heard the noise were close behind him—it was not yet 1 o'clock, and many of the people on board had not retired for the night. Among them was the ship's doctor, and it was he who discovered Esther crumpled on the floor at the foot of the stairs leading to the dining saloon.
The stairway was fortunately short, and against all probability she had escaped serious hurt. Bruised knuckles, which she had knocked against the banister, and a slightly twisted ankle, were the extent of her injuries. She was awake when she was found, though it took her a minute or two to understand where she was. Her mind had traveled back to an hotel in Rome, where the Kennedys had slept in a high room reached by a swift and vertiginous elevator; and somehow she had got into the well of the elevator, which began to descend upon her.
It was the ship's doctor who carried her back to the cabin. It was only his second trip after qualifying, and he treated the case with great solemnity, making Esther lie up the whole of the next day, and personally administering enormous yellow capsules of uncertain composition at regular intervals.

He was a very earnest young man, with close-cropped fair hair, a broad, pink face, and china-blue eyes blinking naively through gold-rimmed spectacles. He had a talk with Tim, and as he spoke some French but very little English, unjustifiably assuming that the latter tongue was practically identical in vocabulary with the former, his meaning tended to be elusive.
"The Couch-mare," he said, "verray dangerous. When infant, bagatelle; when adulter, verray dangerous. I have known gents to catch the brass, the jamb. I have known a mister ject himself from a high fenester; he blessed to death. The Couch-mare verray dangerous."
It is sad to think that this excellent young man should have sealed Esther's fate. It was his last instance that gave Tim the cue he had been waiting for, the case of the mister who jected himself from a high fenester and was blessed to death. For Tim knew of just such a high fenester. . . . From that moment it was only a question of working out the detail.
The rest of the voyage passed without any further outbreak from Esther. The other passengers did not quite ostracize the Kennedys, but they tended to avoid them. It was felt that such a malady was distressing and not quite seemly; besides, many people had their pet version of the first disturbance, and were indignant and resentful at having it exploded.
But the night before the ship called at Dover, Tim tried an experiment.
The first step was to ensure that Esther should get three or four hours' sound sleep. He did not give her medicine, because he wanted the conditions of this rehearsal to approximate as closely as possible those which would obtain when the performance was enacted in earnest. And he was not going to use medicinal then; in the event of a post-mortem traces of a recent dose, inconsistent with nightmare-haunted sleep, would certainly be found.

Instead, making the excuse that it was their last night on board, he called for a magnum of champagne, and filled and refilled Esther's glass until she had drunk over a pint. Esther habitually drank little or nothing, but she liked to let herself go on rare occasions. Excess of alcohol invariably induced in her a childlike gaiety on which extreme fatigue supervened, and she would fall into a heavy sleep, becoming restless and disturbed after two or three hours, finally waking in deathly sickness about 4 or 5 o'clock.
So it was now. But at 3 o'clock, two hours after they had gone to bed, and while her first heavy sleep was still on her, Tim stole from his berth, dropped silently onto the floor, and after opening the cabin door, lifted her with all the gentleness he could command from where she lay. He carried her into the passage, along which he crept stealthily for a dozen yards, then returned, laying her once more in the berth and covering her with the bedclothes. She never stirred. An hour or so later she awoke. She called out softly, "Tim, dear, are you awake?"
"Yes, darling?"
"Will you get me a glass of water?"
He climbed down, switched on the light, and did as she asked.
"How are you feeling, Esther?" he asked.
"Awful. . . . I shouldn't have had that champagne."
"You'll be all right in the morning. . . . Any bad dreams?"
"Not a dream. . . . That's better. I think I could go to sleep again now."
"Right! Good night, dear."
He switched off the light, and climbed back into his bunk, well content. Within a few minutes he was asleep.

Poems That Live
SCYTHE SONG
Mowers, weary and brown, and blithe,
What is the word methinks ye know
Endless over — word that the Scythe
Sings to the blades of the grass below?
Scythes that swing in the grass and clover,
Something, still, they say as they pass;
What is the word that, over and over,
Sings the Scythe to the flowers and grass?
Hush, ah hush, the Scythes are saying,
Hush, and heed not, and fall asleep;
Hush, they say to the grasses swaying,
Hush, they sing to the clover deep!
Hush—'tis the lullaby Time is singing—
Hush, and heed not, for all things pass,
Hush, ah hush! and the Scythes are swinging
Over the clover, over the grass!
—Andrew Lang
SONG
I made another garden, yea,
For my new Love:
I left the dead rose where it lay
And set the new above.
Why did my Summer not begin?
Why did my heart not haste?
My old Love came and walked therein,
And laid the garden waste.
She entered with her weary smile,
Just as of old;
She looked around a little while
And shivered with the cold:
Her passing touch was death to all,
Her passing look a blight;
She made the white rose-petals fall,
And turned the red rose white.
Her pale robe clinging to the grass
Seemed like a snake
That bit the grass and ground, alas!
And a sad trail did make.
She went up slowly to the gate,
And then, just as of yore,
She turned back at the last to wait
And say farewell once more.
—Arthur William O'Shaughnessy.

You're Telling Me!

"I'VE GOT the winner of the world series doped out," announced Zadok Dumbkopf today, as he borrowed, in the following order, a chair, a cigaret, a match and a desk on which he placed his feet. "It's easy for a man of my capacity."
"You see, I take the batting averages of every player, add their ages and divide by the number of years they've been in the big leagues. This gives me a perfect guide to each team's offensive strength."
"Offensive is right," said the sports editor, "but not nearly as offensive as those feet of yours. How can a guy work when his face is full of somebody else's shoe leather?"
"Think nothing of it, my boy," said Zadok. "I'm giving you a first-rate scoop on the series and you mustn't mind a slight inconvenience. Now as for their defensive strength—"
"Pitching, you see, is really less than half the battle. In fact, it is only one-fourth, because a pitcher is only one of the nine members of a ball team. Simple, isn't it?"
"The infielders must be studied for speed, stamina and how much attention they are not paying to the luscious blonde in a green-sport suit in Seat 4, Box C."
"And now we come to the outfield—" But what Dummy had to say about the rest of the Yanks and Giants has been forever lost to posterity because at this point the staff went out to lunch.

JOBS ARE HELD BY 3 OUT OF 5 PARIS CITIZENS

Metal Workers Are First
Among 3,000,000
Employed

BLUM NAMED AS REASON

Old Ramparts Dividing City Being Removed

PARIS, Oct. 7 (UP)—Almost 3,000,000 of Greater Paris' 5,000,000 inhabitants are gainfully employed, statistics show. There was a perceptible increase after the Blum government took office, due largely, it is explained, by work on the Paris Exposition, both in production and public service branches.

The astounding fact revealed by figures is that Paris is one of the largest metal producing cities of Europe, and can lay claim to being the largest metallurgical center of any capital city. A total of 424,627 workers are employed in metallurgical factories inside the Paris area. Moreover, most of the factories are located within the city itself, and not in the suburban area of Greater Paris.

Distribution between city area proper and outlying suburbs is respectively 2,891,020 and 2,042,825. Those employed inside the city itself number 2,072,229, many of whom are commuters from the suburbs. The suburban area employs 857,703 persons.

Ramparts Are Dividing Line

The division between city and suburban districts is clearly defined in Paris by the old ramparts which are being removed. This circular limit is girdled by a broad highway built on the foundations of the last city walls and forts erected after 1870. Four successive waves of growth can be seen on a street map of Paris by the high-ways built on the different wall areas which were successively city limits. Today, with the last walls down, Paris has started a big march into the surrounding country.

The largest classification of employed persons is that of merchants, clerks and office workers. Third in importance are domestic servants, with textiles and tailoring fourth, followed by transport workers, administrative workers, liberal professions and building workers, all grouping more than 150,000 persons each.

Workers Live Close In

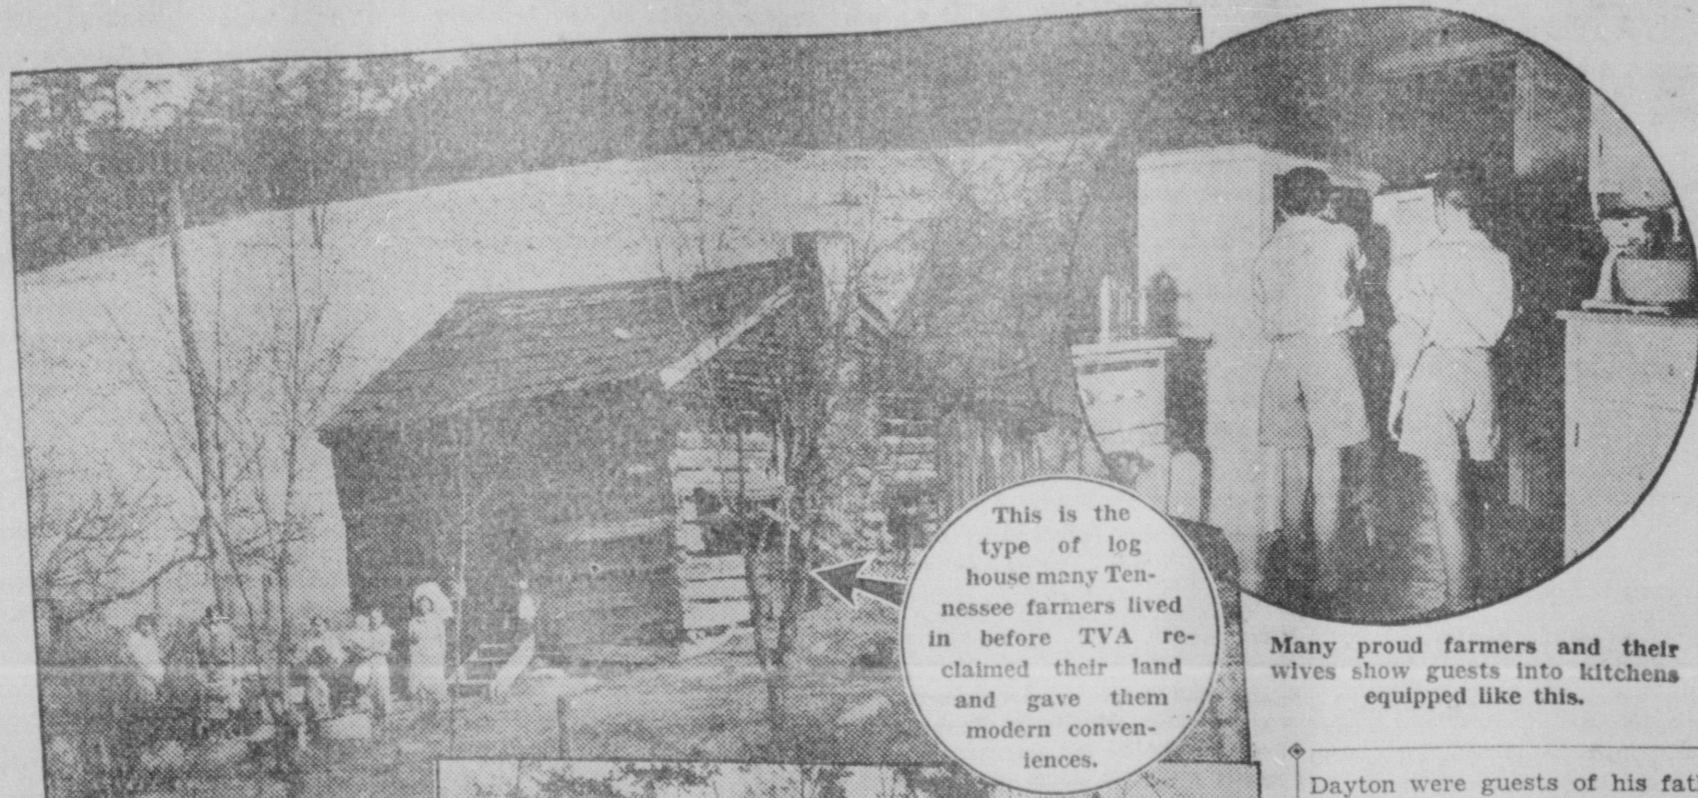

Industrial workers, led by the metallurgists are first in the Paris area. Industries including textiles, paper, rubber, leather and glass, together with metal workers total almost 600,000 workers, placing Paris far ahead among French industrial cities. Most of these workers live within the city limits proper, in the outlying ring of districts which has been named the "Red Belt."

Biggest change in recent years was the growth into the country of the suburban area. The municipality, as a result, has begun a big scheme for the extension of all subway lines one to two miles beyond the present terminals at the old city wall limits.

Jail Silverware Stolen
CHEYENNE, Wyo. — (UP) — Nothing seems to be safe from thieves any more, Fenton Fetch, city jail cook reports that he constantly is necessary to replace silverware "lifted" as souvenirs by inmates of the jail.

A dress with a short fur coat is very smart. A simple wool dress will do for trips to town, teas, church on Sundays. Then have a sports suit with sweaters in different colors, and maybe two hats, if you can manage them. Wear your fur coat over the suit sometimes, or over sweater and skirt without the coat. Get a new "don't dress" or five o'clock dress, something with covered neck or a jacket for the theatre.

Farmers in TVA Region Put Inexpensive Power To 200 Uses and Boost Consumption

This is the type of log house many Tennessee farmers lived in before TVA reclaimed their land and gave them modern conveniences.

Many proud farmers and their wives show guests into kitchens equipped like this.

TUPELO, Miss., Oct. 7 — Nothing increases a farmer's pride of ownership more than electricity on the farm. It becomes an energizing force, not only literally, but in its impact on farming as a way of living.

This has been demonstrated over and over throughout the Tennessee Valley, where inexpensive electricity has been provided by TVA in the past four years.

The mere presence of power with its 200 different uses on a farm causes a farmer to repair his fences and build a new house. The countryside is dotted with modern homes wherever TVA power has become available.

All These New Gadgets!

This psychological effect of electricity is illustrated in Joe Craven's, a farmer near here, who recently escorted visitors through his home that was in need of paint and repairs. He pointed to his new water heater, his glistening white refrigerator, his lights and other appliances. At the back door he proudly called attention to a new water pump. Then he grew apologetic:

"This house here doesn't look much. It needs paint and repairs. But now we've got electricity in here we're planning to fix up things. We're going to do over the place, maybe add some rooms."

General Attitude

This is the general attitude. In one North Alabama county 10 percent of the homes to which electricity has been brought for the first time have been remodeled or entirely new homes constructed.

In commenting on this, David Lillenthal, TVA director, said:

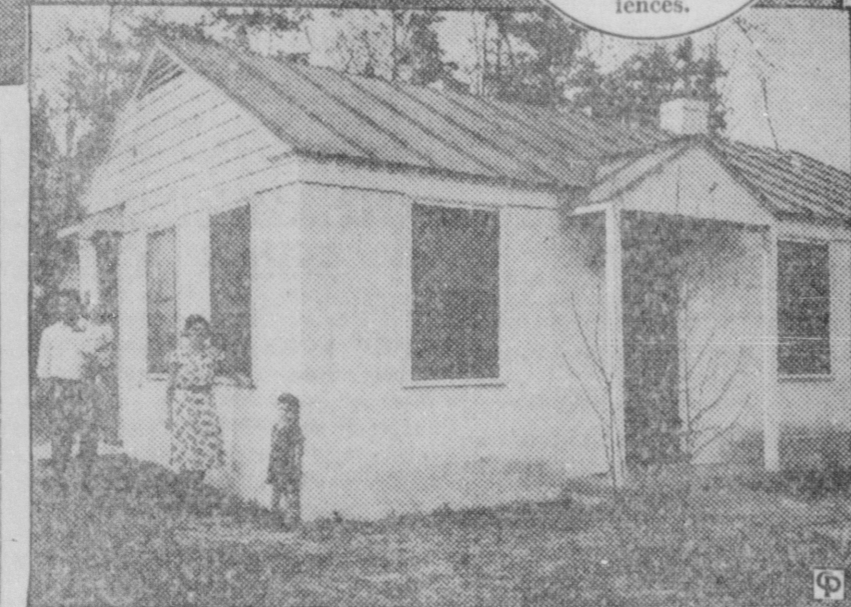

"An electric range or running water in the kitchen increases interest in the home. We find that electricity stimulates demands that have been dormant and changes and raises the standard of living."

"Some farmers have taken electricity when it has been a pinch for them to find room for it in their restricted budgets. But the presence of power on the farm has led them to devise ways of using that power for the increase of their cash income."

"There have sprung up numerous small manufacturing operations which a farmer and one or two helpers can carry on. Semi-industrial operations are sometimes carried on in the woodshed."

Low Rates, Greater Usage

Lillenthal pointed out how TVA rates, about half what the private power companies charge, have increased the use of electricity. Since TVA entered the field, total residential consumption in Toledo increased 267 percent; Athens, Ala., 272 percent; some county-wide co-operative associations in Mississippi, 292 percent.

A new cinder block house heated by electricity and equipped with numerous electric conveniences.

The amount of electricity used by the average householder in TVA territory also has jumped. Under high rates the average householder used 49 kilowatt-hours a month, while with TVA rates he uses 130 kilowatt-hours a month, or more than twice the national average of 55 kilowatt-hours.

"It is interesting to note," Lillenthal said, "how a reduction in light rates will change the entire manner of living of a farmer, his wife and his children."

Private Companies Gain

This is also seen in areas still served by private power companies that have cut their rates to meet the encroaching TVA.

The Tennessee Electric Power company has increased its consumers 57 percent and its revenue 17 percent since reducing rates 37 percent in the past three years.

NEWARK WINS LITTLE WORLD'S SERIES BY COPPING FOURTH IN ROW

RED BIRD CLUB FAILS DESPITE EARLY STREAK

Phil Page Takes Place Of Joe Beggs To End Columbus Chances

NELSON POTTER LOSER

63,250 Fans Pay To See Seven Contests

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7 — (UP) — For the second time in six years the Newark Bears today ruled the minor league baseball world.

Newark climaxed a phenomenal comeback here last night when it downed the Columbus Red Birds for the fourth straight time to take the seventh and final game of the "Little World Series" by a 10 to 4 count.

The Bears went into the series a heavy favorite, but their cause appeared hopeless after they dropped the three games played in their home park. Moving here however, the club lived up to the claim it was the "strongest minor league team in history" and swept through four games to take the title.

The Bears' first minor league title came in 1932 when they defeated Minneapolis.

Superior pitching was the deciding factor in Newark's triumph. In last night's game Joe Beggs, ace right-hander started and was driven from the mound after three and one-third rounds. Phil Page, a husky southpaw who worked only 30 innings during the regular season, then went to the hill and handcuffed Columbus. Page gave up only three hits in five and two-third innings and the only damaging blow was a home run in the ninth by Johnny Rizzo.

Columbus used five pitchers but they were powerless to halt the slugging Bears. Newark nipped them for 13 hits, six of which were good for extra bases. The defeat was charged to Nelson Potter, the Red Birds' first hurler.

The seven game series drew a total of 63,250 fans. The winning Bears split a purse of $13,561.10, while the losing Columbus players shared in a pot of $8,907.40.

ATLANTA ATHLETE AT GUARD POST FOR CAPITAL U

COLUMBUS, Oct. 7 — After playing at Detroit and Cleveland Capital University's football eleven will remain at home this Saturday to play its first home game against Marietta. Because of Capital's victory over Detroit Tech audits fine showing against Case at Cleveland, the Fighting Lutherans will be slightly favored to defeat the Pioneers.

Oakley Turner of Atlanta is a member of this year's Capital grid eleven which is generally conceded as being the best in the history of Purple football. Twelve lettermen and plentiful sophomore reserve strength have provided Coach Bill Bernhorr with what looks like a winning combination. Turner, a senior letterman, will be at his usual post, guard, in the starting line-up.

After the Marietta game the Purples travel to play at Bowling Green, thereafter returning for home games with Findlay and Ohio Northern the last two Saturdays of October.

Mr. Turner is the son of C. O. Turner, residing at Atlanta, Ohio.

TIGER STAR - By Jack Sords

About This and That In Many Sports

Bears Too Much

The Columbus "Eolds", ridiculed at the start of the baseball season but good enough to win the American pennant and its playoff series from the best clubs in the league, finally went down to defeat in a playoff, Wednesday evening. The Newark Bears, blast 'em, won their fourth contest in a row after dropping the first three games of the series on their home grounds. Ye janitor watched the 10-1 game played Tuesday evening in which Newark played ball and Columbus was just there. The fact that the conductor of this corner went to sleep the sixth inning means that something was wrong, because that is the first time such a thing ever happened. Without Jimmy Jordan at the second base cushion the Columbus infield was without a rudder; without pitching good enough to battle the Bears, the team was lost.

Team Had Fight

There's one thing for which all must give the Red Birds credit; they had one of the best fighting spirits of any minor league club in history.

Dads Honored

It's Dad's Day, rather "Dad's Night," at the high school athletic field Friday evening when Circleville and Sunbury tangle. The game starts at 8 p. m., and promises to be interesting. On the Tiger bench will be the parents, or guardians, of all members of the squad. They will wear uniforms on their backs to correspond with those on their sons' uniforms. The dads will be guests of the High School Athletic association. A loud-speaker system will be in use again.

Guesses in Order

This being ye day for prognostications here goes: Still riding the O. S. U. bandwagon, we're giving the Bucks the nod over Southern Cal; Baldwin-Wallace over John Carroll; Harvard over Brown; Purdue over Carnegie Tech; Case over Wooster; Wisconsin over Chicago; Dayton over Cincinnati; Cornell over Princeton, and the enlarged proboscis is being struck out on this won; Pitt over Duquesne; Notre Dame over Illinois; Minnesota over Indiana; Nebraska over Iowa State; Michigan State over Manhattan; Northwestern over Michigan; N. Y. U. over North Carolina; Western Reserve over Ohio U., and that's something; Yale over Pennsylvania; Marquette over South Dakota; Navy over Virginia; Wittenberg over Denison.

CUBS END STREAK OF WHITE SOX IN CITY TITLE PLAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 7 — (UP) — Chicago Cubs who finally broke the White Sox city series streak after it reached nine in a row, looked for another victory today, from solemn Curt Davis, most effective Cub pitcher during the closing days of the National league pennant race.

Right-handed Vernon Kennedy will pitch for the American leaguers in today's game at Comiskey park.

The Cubs won yesterday's series opener, 7 to 3. Three-run clusters in the sixth and eighth innings routed the Sox after they had nicked Jim (Tex) Carleton for two runs in the second inning.

The Cubs jumped on Ted Lyons and Bill Dietrich for 15 hits, scoring in the fifth, sixth and eighth. Hits by Bill Herman, Frank Demaree and Phil Cavaretta sent Lyons to the showers in the sixth and Joe Marty added another off Dietrich scoring the third run.

LINEUP IS ABOUT SET

Stoogers Start Work For Booster Game

A spirit that spells doom to the Sunbury high school football team has been prevalent in Circleville Tiger practices this week. Each boy on the squad has been doing his best to win a place in the starting lineup against the Delaware county crew, of which very little is known locally.

The gridners will be performing for their fathers, Friday evening, since the event is being termed a "Dad's Day". The game starts at 8 p. m.

The Red and Black outfit has been up and down in its games played to date. A miserable showing was made against Groveport, but Worthington was put down in an impressive manner. Last week Granville ran roughshod over the Tiger crew. A return to winning form is promised Friday evening.

The Tiger lineup is almost certain to be: Jackson, Liston, Fickard, ends; Merriman, Rooney, tackles; Garner, G. Arledge, guards; H. Martin, center; P. Walters, Stebelton, quarterback; M. Walters, righthalf; Woodward, leftback; Noggle, Jenkins, fullback.

Officials for Friday's game will be Rosenthal, Ohio State, referee; Ferree, Ohio Wesleyan, umpire, and Harris, Capital, head linesman.

A committee from the Stooge club and the high school field improvement group met Wednesday evening to discuss the Booster Game against Greenfield on Oct. 20. Booster tickets will be placed on sale for $1. This date has been set aside, too, for the dedication of the lighting system and inspection of the school addition.

BULLDOG'S BALL TEAM IS MIGHTY, RECORD REVEALS

New Holland high school has one of the best high school baseball teams to perform in Pickaway county in many years. The club has lost only one in six games played, and has defeated the team that administered its only whipping.

Bernard Warner, high school coach and Harold Costlow, superintendent, are handling the Bulldogs. Costlow, a former Capital U. pitcher is working with the batters.

New Holland won a 2-1 game from Pickaway township Wednesday.

The team's lineup includes: Speakman, c; Skinner, p; Mossbarger and Asher, 1b; Stout, 2b; Satchell and Brown, ss; Louis, 3b; Ebert, rf; Davis, cf; L. Dennis, lf.

Counted among the team's vic-times are Bloomingburg, Good Hope on two occasions, South Solon, and Pickaway. Bloomingburg holds a victory over the squad.

Gomez Laments Loss Of Two-Base Hit in Opener

NEW YORK Oct. 7.—(UP)—Dots and Dashes:

World Series' No. 1 optimist—Johnny McCarthy, Giant first baseman. He says: "The Yanks lost the opener last season but won the series. We lost the first game this time and we'll win the series..." The Yanks have a new war cry "Yuh Sed It." All of them yelled it as they stomped into the dressing room. The Yanks closed the series last year with a seven run inning. This time they opened it with seven.

Most disgusted man after the opening game: Lefty Gomez, who had just pitched the Yankees to victory. He was sore because Ripple barely caught his eighth-inning drive. "It woulda been a double," Gomez moaned. "Imagine me hitting a double in the series—wow!" Two "mystery" records were established in that sixth inning. Gomez drew two walks and DiMaggio came up twice with the bases loaded. Record books have nothing in them about such feats ever being performed in a series game. Gomez was still talking about "my batting streak" today. The Goofy one made the best crack of the series when he was asked what he would do to the Giants if he faced them again. "I never make predictions," he said. "Dizzy's with the Cards."

Jimmy Ripple of the Giants broke the first bat of the series in the second inning—and he's probably still explaining it to the missus. He gave the bat to her as a souvenir last year after the series. Then he "borrowed" it to use this year. Frank Crosetti's nickname is Donald Duck. His "pep yells" sounded just like Donald—and they constantly could be heard above the roar of the crowd.

A gambler offered to lay $1,000,000 to one yesterday that both Hubbell and Gomez wouldn't hit homers. Very considerable of him. Cliff Melton will be in for plenty of jockeying today from the Yanks bench in regard to his ears. One of the best cracks about the ears was heard in the press section yesterday. To wit: The Yankees are going to protest because Cliff's ears extend out so far they block out the batter's view of the Giant outfielders.

Sitting in the press box with those two eminent "baseball experts," Joe (Yussel the Mussel) Jacobs and Hymie Kaplan. Jacobs, who made history with his "I shoulda stood in bed" in the series at Detroit, still is trying to come up with one equally as good. Kaplan, whose pugilistic background makes it difficult for him to comprehend anything that is not right handed was amazed at the left handers. "What's dis, a left handed series?" he asked. "Ain't no right handers sowed in here?"

Burgess Whitehead, Giant second baseman, got a letter from Mount Tabor Burton, his negro man down on his Lewiston, N. C. farm. "I have just told de Lord," wrote Burton, "that he can forget all the pesterin' this darkie has been a-givin' him for 90 years if he just sends me home a champion. Whitehead sent him car fare to come to New York for the rest of the series."

ROLFE TO ENTER GOTHAM HOSPITAL AT SERIES' CLOSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 — (UP) — Robert (Red) Rolfe, Yankee third-baseman, will enter St. Vincent's hospital immediately after the series and undergo an operation for removal of a growth on his thigh, it was disclosed today.

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON BELIEVES SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS NEAR

SOLONS REPORT MANY RUMORS IN U. S. CAPITAL

Four Questions Up For Consideration If F. D. R. Acts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Official Washington was "almost certain" today that President Roosevelt would call a special session of congress to convene about Nov. 15.

Although most sources denied that they had any authoritative knowledge on the subject many indicated that the presidential call would be made, possibly within a week.

The possibility of a special session increased yesterday after the remarks of Mr. Roosevelt at a press conference in Hyde park. At the completion of his two week tour of the Northwest, the president said that he was giving serious consideration to such a session and that there was a distinct possibility that he would call it.

Agriculture department officials, who have hinted for several days that the session would be called to get an early start on the administration's farm program, hastened completion of the recommendations they will make to congress. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, however, denied any official knowledge of the president's plans.

Session Hoped For The few congressional elders in the capital said that they hoped there would be a special session, but claimed to have no authoritative information.

In Harve, Mont., Sen. James Murray, D., Mont., told reporters he had been informed by an "authoritative" congressional source that a special session would be convened Nov. 15, and that the same source had so advised all members of congress.

However, Sen. Elbert Thomas, D., Utah, chairman of the senate education and labor committee, said here:

"That source must have forgotten me. I haven't heard anything of the sort, but I hope it's true."

Mr. Roosevelt, in discussing the possibility of a special session, indicated that at least four subjects surely would be considered if the session is called.

- They were:
1. A comprehensive farm program.
 2. The wages and hours bill, pigeon-holed at the close of the last session in the house rules committee.
 3. Legislation dividing the country into eight sections for future public works programs.
 4. Reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BASE DECEPTION

AGAINST a contract which seems easy for the declarer to make, it is sometimes winning bridge to select a lead that will bamboozle him and make him think you hold some card which is really in your partner's hand. Such an opening may perchance slip him an extra trick on a silver platter, but if it promises to increase by the slightest degree the possibility of thwarting his enterprise, the risk may be well worth while.

Q. He knew that along the way his singleton J of spades would be bound to drop, which would make the play of that suit simple for the declarer. If it happened that his partner held the Q, the declarer would then take a marked finesse. Reflecting upon all of these, the man in the West seat, who happened to be the brilliant Arthur Glatt of Chicago, realized that if he led the spade J the declarer probably would place him as making the old false-card lead of the J from the Q and J alone and so probably would try to drop the Q. As it turned out, and as a consequence East made the setting trick with his Q of spades.

Here is a case where South had opened with a game guarantee bid of 2-Spades and had received a positive response of 3-Clubs from North, whereupon South said 7-No Trumps.

When West took stock of his situation he reckoned that the declarer probably could rake in 13 tricks by normal play, which would entail the lead of the heart

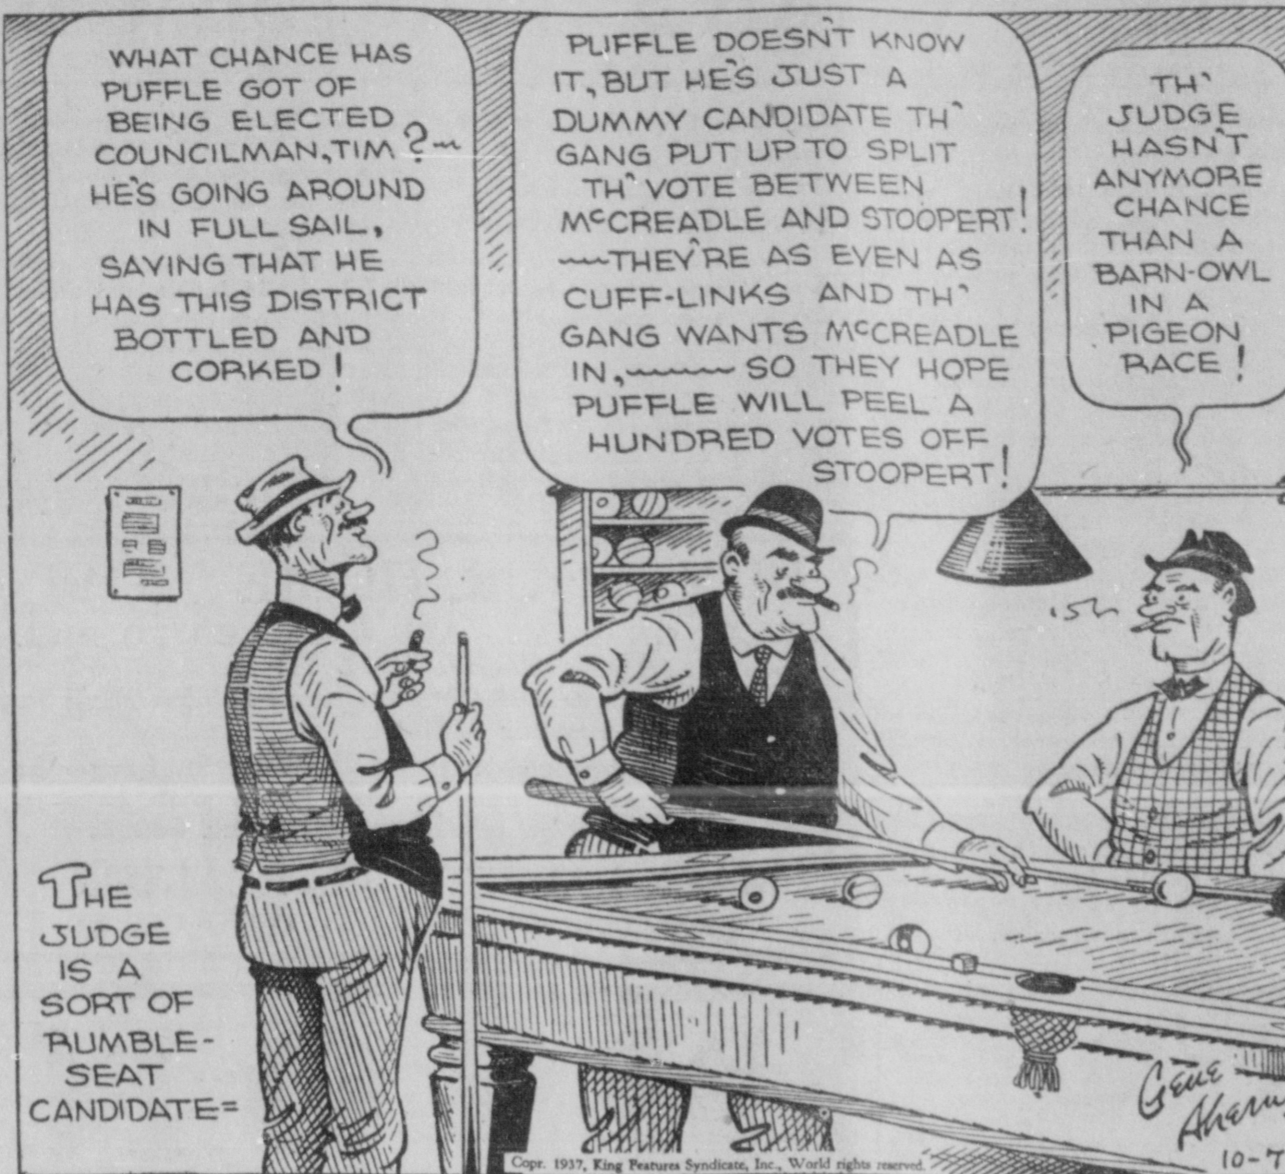

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

With the spade K led against South's 5-Clubs doubled by West, how should the declarer play for his contract?

COUNCIL ACCEPTS GOVERNMENT GRANT FOR SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

CONTRACT MADE WITH ENGINEER TO DRAW PLANS

Work Must Start In 14 Weeks, Leist Informs City Officials

SITE IS BEING SOUGHT

Marion Man To Receive Percentage Fee

Council accepted the grant of $61,363 from the Public Works Administration, Wednesday night, for the government's share of the disposal plant project, made a new contract with Floyd G. Browne, Marion, O., sanitary engineer, and made arrangements to shift into high gear to meet federal regulations on the allotment.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, met with P. W. A. officials in Columbus, Wednesday, to obtain information about the formal offer of the government. Mr. Leist told councilmen the formal offer on the allotment was made Sept. 30, and councilmen had 14 days in which to make their acceptance.

14 Weeks Permitted

Under regulations of the grant the city has 14 weeks from the date of the offer to start work on the project. Plans for the plant are now being prepared by Mr. Browne. Mr. Leist pointed out a vast amount of work must be done quickly to meet the allotment regulations. The plans must be approved by the State Board of Health and P. W. A., the site must be obtained, the contract advertised and awarded, materials obtained and work started.

The Continer Corporation is expected to send a written statement to council concerning the site in the near future. Several meetings have been held between city and company officials concerning a site at the rear of the company's plant. The company has agreed to co-operate with the city to the fullest extent in providing the necessary land.

Plans Changed
The new contract with the engineer was made necessary when changes were made in the original plans for the plant. Council asked Mr. Browne to include treatment of the wastes of the Continer Corporation in the plans for the city plant.

All councilmen with the exception of Harry Steinhilber approved the contract. Mr. Steinhilber believed the new contract with the engineer should not be completed until the site had been obtained. Mr. Browne will receive a fee of six and a half percent of the net cost of the plant construction.

Merchant's Request For Parking Permit Discussed

The request of a merchant for permission to have a large demonstration trailer in front of his Main street establishment next Tuesday brought a lengthy discussion in council Wednesday night with the proposition finally being tossed to Mayor W. J. Graham and Chief William McCrady for settlement. Parking the trailer would be in violation of the city's two-hour parking regulation for the downtown district. Mr. Graham said he had refused several stores permission to have demonstrations of various types and a precedent would be established in this case. He pointed out that traffic had increased greatly on Route 22 in recent months. Trucks going east and west use the highway to escape traffic in Columbus, he said.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS ASKED TO PARTICIPATE IN PHOTO EXHIBITION

For the first time in its history the Pumpkin Show will offer an opportunity for serious minded amateur photographers to compete for honors. Miles of photographic film are exposed annually by Pickaway county snapshooters and many fine pictures are to be found among the results. All pictures entered must have been taken in the last twelve months. Only residents of Pickaway county are eligible to compete. These restrictions are imposed in order to insure a completely new exhibit each year and to encourage the production of better pictures.

In selecting pictures for this exhibit it is well to bear in mind that judges of photographic salons bear in mind three points: line, tone and mass (balance). It goes without saying that lines which make up the picture must be pleasingly and interestingly arranged. Proper tone can only be obtained from negatives which have been exposed reasonably near the proper length of time. The prints also will vary in tone quality according to the exposure and the suitability of the particular grade of paper and formula employed. In choosing a negative for a print to enter look for detail in both shadow and highlight. Shadows should not be too dark nor highlight too blank-white, but the two should merge gradually and generally speaking, detail should be visible in the greater part of each. It is conceivable however that a camera enthusiast may have deliberately produced a picture entirely lacking in detail or graduation of tone quality, as in silhouettes. If one has a good subject of this type it should by all means be entered, since such effort requires as much or more thought than the usual type of picture.

In the last place, look to the amount of material include in the picture and its distribution in the space. There should be brought into focus a central object or thought in the mind of each observer and all other matter included should support this object and not detract from it. The picture should have a balanced appearance; rarely should the central object be placed in the geometrical center of the print. Most amateur photographs that are pleasing to the eye are made from portions of the negative.

Prints submitted should be from 5x7 to 11x14 inches and mounted as specified in the Pumpkin Show premium list. In keeping with the trend of photographic salons customs the competition is for honors only and ribbons will be awarded the winning prints. It is not necessary for contestants to finish their own prints. Arthur R. Steddom, the local photographer, will be glad to assist in the selection of negatives and to cooperate in attaining the particular results desired. This studio is enjoying a steady growth in the number of friends among the camera fans and can be relied upon to capture the latent possibilities of your negatives. — Adv.
